

Mélange Productions Inc. will be celebrating the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural 70th Anniversary on October 3, 2015.

FASHION.DANCE.THEATRE.DIVERSITY.CHARITY

Mélange Productions Inc. is a global platform that unites the Bay Area fashion, arts, and entrepreneurial communities for the annual production at the Regency Center. Our mission is to celebrate diversity and human rights through fashion and art, and we produce one of the largest international fashion shows in San Francisco, CA.

This year's event will be celebrating the 70th Year Anniversary of The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO). UNESCO was founded to develop the "intellectual and moral solidarity of mankind" as a means of building lasting peace. Its pioneering work has helped change the way people everywhere understand each other around the world.

Some of our past partners and designers include: Sephora, Jean Paul Gaultier, Nicole Miller, Porsche of Steven's Creek, YesStyle.com, and more. Melange 2013 featured four looks from Jean Paul Gaultier and designs by Punk Kouture, who has designed for Nicki Minaj, and Mick Jagger.

We will be having several celebrity appearances including:

Katiti Kironde: The first African American woman to be featured on Glamour Magazine and Harvard Fashion Seminar Teacher

Bobby Lando: Designed for Lady Gaga and styled for Iggy Izaela, Will I Am and Azealia Banks

MÉLANGE KIDS 2015

This year, our celebrity outreach program aims to empower kids by:

- Building self-confidence
- Teaching them Modern etiquette and how to walk down the runway
- Offer career coaching skills that will help build their futures

Members of Mélange believe that by investing in the youth, we can make greater steps towards creating a more unified and creative world by nourishing their dreams, because the youth are our foundation to a greater, more unified future.
