Gone is a short film about a girl who is abducted by a serial killer and about her fight and struggle to escape.

Parts:

Girl (20-25 years old) (lead): The girl (we never find out her name) is in her early 20’s. By all accounts she is average and typical for a girl of her age; therefore more relatable. She lives in a suburban neighborhood in a somewhat affluent area. She had a charming and wonderful childhood and grew up well. She is about to start her adult life and is in post secondary education. She is an only child and goes on weekend runs every weekend. She is kind hearted by nature but is intelligent and strong. She loves her family and her life and doesn’t want to lose that especially in such a horrible situation.

*Actress must be aware and okay with the dark subject matter and situations of the film and scenes with a struggle taking place.

*The following parts only require a photo and possible demo reel to the following email erinoleary05@hotmail.com as they are non speaking roles. Contact will be made for a meeting and audition if you are found to suit the role.

Man (secondary) (late 20s to early 30s): The man (we also never find out his name) is in his early 30s, white, average build. Lives alone in an older suburban house that he inherited from his parents and hasn’t been renovated since the 70s or 80s. He is a loner has no friends or family (at least that he associates with). He keeps to himself; he seems a bit odd but by all accounts harmless according to his neighbors. He is anything but as the girl is not his first victim. He likes to pick girls from surrounding areas and stalk them, follow their routines, in essence hunt them. When the need gets too strong to be satiated by the stalking he goes in for the kill; abducting them, keeping them captive for several days as he rapes and beats them, then killing and disposing. Fantasizing about the act he just committed satisfies him for awhile but when the urge resurfaces he is back on the hunt for his next victim.

Mother and Father (40s-60s age): Only in one scene they are typical loving parents experiencing their worst nightmares.

Detectives: 30+ years old 2 of them either gender, only in one scene.
